When faced with the toughest of the times in life, ‘never giving up’ is the only thing that can help us sail through and reach the other side of the tunnel. With this message as the reverberating voice throughout, a webinar was organised for the students of classes IX to XII, and their parents on July 18, 2020. It was once again proved that it is only positive thoughts and actions that help one cut through the testing times.

Dr. Arpita Kapur and anaesthesiologist from ASMO, Civil Hospital, Panchkula, Ms. Anchal Sharma, the counselling psychologist from Fortis, Mohali, and Sister B. K. Neha, Rajyoga Teacher were the Guest Speakers, with Ms. Pooja Prakash, Principal as the Moderator.

Dr. Kapur, through her impressive PPT presentation, brought awareness regarding the present condition, symptoms, and prevention of Coronavirus spread. She also appreciated the process of online teaching that is the ‘in-thing’ now but warned against its negative impacts if overdone. She told the learners and their parents to take care of the ‘A to F’ strategy, which will surely help them to ease out. It is taking care of Awareness, Break, Cutting down the total gadget time, Diet, Exercise, and Family time.

Ms. Anchal Sharma, the counselling psychologist, presented an interesting PPT presentation. She spoke of three phases that every change brings in: i) the Initial Reaction (Emotional), ii) the Intermediate Reaction (Intellectual), and, iii) the Final Healthy Reaction (Acceptance). She quoted Hellen Keller and Viktor E. Frankl to suggest that there is always a space between a stimulus and a response to it. We have got to react with patience in that space to control our response finally.

The final sublimation came from the discourse by Sister Neha , who patiently answered each question posed to her with an example. She alluded to the functioning of our brain, for example, to the working of an Air Conditioner. To use AC to cool or to heat is in our control. By finding good behind every negativity, by not discussing our insecurities with our loved ones, by welcoming our critics with open arms, we can search for the golden rays behind our worries and tensions. A live session of meditation by her in the webinar brought the students and parents to their better and relaxed selves.

The presence of 200 participants, an unending series of queries in the chatbox, and overwhelming applause by the parents and students alike for the school for organising such an informative webinar took it to its successful culmination. The Video Link was later shared with all the Learners and the Parents of the School.
